

Absolutely. I'd make it feel more like a luxury travel concierge document—clean, elegant, sophisticated, and branded only as Royal Escapes Travel.

This guide is provided as a general travel resource. Baggage policies, identification requirements, entry regulations, and permitted items vary by airline, cruise line, destination, and country. Travelers should verify current requirements prior to departure.

For the finished branded version, I'd use ivory/cream, black, champagne gold, and a very restrained deep plum accent, with the Royal Escapes crown used subtly rather than the bright pink/purple look. That would give it a much more high-end luxury travel agency feel.
